SIR JOHN SUCKLING

Sir John Suckling

The Constant Lover

By Sir John Suckling (1609-1642)

Sir John Suckling (1609-42) was one of the Cavalier poets at the court of King Charles I of England. He took up arms in the conflicts of that era but was said to be more fit for the boudoir than the battlefield. He was a prolific lover, a sparkling wit and an excessive gamester and is credited with inventing the card game, Cribbage. Cavalier poetry was witty, decorous and sometimes naughty. The Constant Lover displays these elements as well as Suckling's conversational ease and charm. (Summary by Rachel Lintern). Total running time: 00:09:27.
